Approximate Duration of Lesson
Three day lesson

Materials and Equipment Needed
Computer with Internet access, copies of articles and handouts, poster boards, markers, magazines, newspapers, tape, glue.

Background/Preparation
The teacher will collect the materials named above. A few weeks before the debate(s), give students the topic(s) to be covered. In the case of this lesson, the debate will be over which of three proposed locations for a third civil rights interpretive center within the state of Alabama would be most appropriate.

Procedures/Activities
Day One:
- The teacher will engage students in a “Read, Talk, Write” activity by first pairing students off. Once in their pairs, the partners should decide who will be “A” and who will be “B” (the letters represent whose turn it is throughout the collaboration).
- Students will then be instructed to silently read the “About Us” section of an article about the City of St. Jude. The article can be found at http://cityofstjude.org/. Once they are finished, they should place the article to the side.
- Student A (or student B) should now spend 60 seconds telling their partner what they read. After the first student is done, their partner should take their turn.
Next, students should write an independent response to what they learned about the City of St. Jude, without looking at the article.

Day Two (and Day Three if necessary):

- Students will participate in a debate on the best place for an historic museum and center after reading the article found at http://blog.al.com/live/2010/03/three_alabama_sites_compete_fo.html
  The will use the following format to frame the debate: http://www.at-bristol.com/cz/teachers/Debate%20formats.pdf or the teacher can use the following directions:

  1. Introduce debates by sharing the rubric found at the end of this lesson with students so that they know in advance what will be expected of them.
  2. Create debate teams consisting of an equal number of students for each side of your debate: pro, con and an audience.
  3. Before you hand the debate assignments out, explain that some students might be debating positions opposite to their beliefs. This is an important skill for them to learn.
  4. On the day of the debate, give students in the 'audience' a blank rubric. Explain that it is their job to judge the debate objectively.
  5. Begin the debate with the pro side speaking first. Allow them 5-7 minutes of uninterrupted time to explain their position. Both members must participate equally.
  6. Repeat step number six for the con side.
  7. Give both sides about three minutes to confer and prepare for their rebuttal.
  8. Begin the rebuttals with the con side and give them three minutes to speak. Both members must participate equally.
  9. Repeat step number 9 for the pro side.

Assessment Strategies
Students’ debate responses will be assessed using the debate rubric found at the end of this lesson.

Extension
- The students will create their own power point or story board shows using the photos found at the website below: http://www.crmvet.org/images/imgmont.htm
- Students can examine the trials of Montgomery’s first black doctors and St. Jude’s role in their careers at http://fredferg.blogs.com/appendix/2006/08/19990223_medica.html and http://www.encyclopediaofalabama.org/face/Article.jsp?id=h-2410 or https://sites.google.com/site/earlyblackdocsalabama/
